

DIFFERENT BOOTS

I packed your shirt in a paper sack
Left your key on the porch rail back
Your truck still sleeps in the red dirt drive
But I swear I feel more alive
Since you went and took your shadow too
I got room to dance now, me and the blue

Mama said, "Girl, don't you look down"
So I kicked these boots on the ground
Took the long road out of town
And I heard my own name turn around

Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go
Different boots, same song
I been lonely too long
Hey now, hey now
I'm gonna sing it loud
Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go

My sister drove by in her pickup green
Said, "You look like spring in a faded tee"
We laughed so hard at the county line
She said, "Honey, that grin looks fine"
I found my ring in a dresser drawer
Didn't need that weight anymore

Then my best friend hollered from the yard
"Girl, you made it through the hard"
So I rolled my sleeves, raised my chin
Felt that whole new life kick in

Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go
Different boots, same song
I been lonely too long
Hey now, hey now
I'm gonna sing it loud
Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go

One voice says, "Stay"
One voice says, "Run"
One voice says, "Girl, you're the one"
So I open that gate
Let the daylight in
And I start again

Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go
Different boots, same song
I been lonely too long
Hey now, hey now
I'm gonna sing it loud
Different boots, same road
Watch me let that hurt go
